SMART Sustainability has developed a thriving business providing automated water-use optimisation to more than 30,000 Australian homes. Eco-Plant™ incorporates sensors, intelligent metering, and a smart-phone application to monitor and reduce water consumption by up to 30% whilst offering residents real-time pricing to save even more water. Eco-Plant™ users receive notifications via mobile phone when they run out of water, allowing them to keep themselves, and their neighbours, updated on their water usage. Eco-Plant™ also advises householders on how much water is safe for them to use at their current level of consumption. The Eco-Plant™ system is ideal for Atherton as Sydney's climate can cause water wastage at residential and commercial properties when it's not used or when it's not properly treated. Our treatment plant is approx 30 minutes drive from Atherton in one of the driest spots in Australia and our catchment serves 1,000,000 residents, an agricultural community and significant infrastructure in our commercial, industrial and residential market. Atherton Hot Water System Corporation's Commercial Manager, Chris Weller said, "Our customers value the convenience of having smart metering and the opportunity to save water both on their property and on their bill. Q: Saving and restoring an environment I have set up a R session in a folder, using a file in a different folder: home/user/study/R file I would like to save this environment as the current (is that the right word?) and then restore it later. Is there a way to do this? A: If you have RStudio or a similar environment, then go to Tools -> Global Options, then in the R Console tab click on Restart RStudio When Saving and select the Save option. The global options should be saved when you close RStudio. The present invention relates to a new and distinct cultivar of Heuchera, botanically known as Heuchera×hybrida, and hereinafter referred to by the name 'Sunsurveyra'. The new Heuchera plant is a product of a planned breeding program conducted by the Inventor in Hillegom, The Netherlands. The objective of the breeding program is to create new vigorous Heuchera plants with numerous attractive flowers. The new Heuchera plant originated from a cross-pollination made by the Inventor in Hillegom, The Netherlands in June, 2005 of a proprietary selection of Heuchera×hybrida identified as code number 165971, not patented, as the female, or seed, parent with a proprietary selection of Heuchera×hybrida identified as code number 165973, not patented, as the male, or pollen, parent. The new Heuchera plant was discovered and selected by the Inventor as a single flowering plant from within the progeny of the stated cross-pollination in a controlled greenhouse environment in Hillegom, The Netherlands in July, 2006. Asexual reproduction of the new Heuchera plant by vegetative cuttings in a controlled greenhouse environment in Hillegom, The Netherlands since August, 2006, has shown that the unique features of this new Heuchera plant are stable and reproduced true to type in successive generations.
